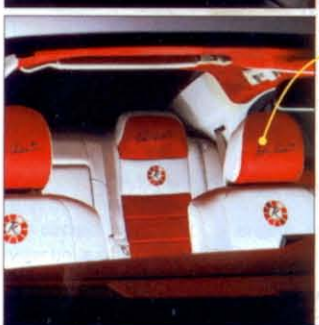
Yep, that's Ahman's signature on the hood of his car.

GREEN'S MACHINE

Packers pro-bowl running back Ahman Green wears his allegiance on his ride.



STUFF: Tell us about your 2006 Dodge Charger R/T.
AHMAN: My business partner, Rodney Johnson, owns a shop called RS Innovations in Omaha, Nebraska. He came up with the idea of doing something different with the car. My old teammate Tony Fisher had his car done up too. The cars sell for $45,000 to $75,000.
Why go full-on Nebraska Cornhusker with the car?
I never forget where I come from. When people think of the Midwest, all they think of is Chicago. The Midwest is more than that; it's where people do big things. I had a pretty good time at college, and it's a subtle and nice reminder of what I did there.
So that's why you have the embroidered BABY SEAT and all the stats etched onto the engine?
I don't brag, so RS Innovations built me a car that does it for me. They're known for CUSTOM INTERIORS and matching car seats—they just took it one step further this time. Dodge put the big 340-horsepower Hemi V-8 in the vehicle, so we listed the NEBRASKA PLAYERS that made the conference first team on it.
What are some other highlights?
We added a set of custom-painted DIABLO PARADOX RIMS AND PIRELLI TIRES. There's also a DVD player with two headrest TVs and a rearview camera. The custom interior is suede and leather, and there are massaging seats for the long days after a tough game.
The best part is the trunk.
When you open the trunk, it looks like NEBRASKA'S MEMORIAL STADIUM. It's the whole liner of the trunk.
What's your dream car?
I have it. The Charger is something that's specific to me. I also like my '67 Shelby Mustang, signed by Carroll Shelby himself.
Since you're so into the Huskers, have you thought about a corn fuel–powered car?
It's something I would definitely do. It would save the world we are about to destroy. That'd be cool.
So, do you still husk?
Not in years, man. Not since college.

[PHOTOGRAPHY BY OLAF HAUSCHULTZ]